CHANCELLOR TO WAIT

Delays Trip in Order to Meet Booker T. Washington.

LEAVES LATER IN THE MONTH

Advised that District Will Pay His Expenses, Not Exceeding $5 Per Day—Commissioner West Gets Ruling Favorable to Superintendent from Comptroller Tracewell.

Dr. William E. Chancellor, superintendent of public instruction for the District of Columbia, will not leave the city today on his trip of inspection of certain institutions of learning for colored people in the South.

This change in Dr. Chancellor's plans is due to a letter which he received yesterday from Booker T. Washington, in which the negro educator wrote that he had been advised by the newspapers of Dr. Chancellor's intended trip, and wished very much to meet him in person; but that he, Dr. Washington, would not be at Tuskegee until after December 1, and hoped that Dr. Chancellor would defer his visit to that institution until after that date.

"My original permit gave me the liberty of making the trip between November 15 and December 15," said Dr. Chancellor yesterday, "and I can still make it between those dates, even though I do not start as soon as I had anticipated. At any rate," he added, "I will not cut my Thanksgiving dinner in Washington."

The institutions which Dr. Chancellor is to visit are Tuskegee, Fiske University at Nashville, Tenn.; Hampton, and the Atlanta University. In connection with the last named he will also inspect the Calhoun Institution, which is a sort of academical preparatory school for Atlanta University.

Told Expense Account is Allowed. Dr. Chancellor reiterated yesterday his remarks of the day before concerning the expenses of the contemplated trip. "My secretary has been notified by telephone," he said, "that the Commissioner will pay my transportation and allow me five dollars a day expenses; but that offer has not been given me in writing. However, I shall make the trip even though I have to pay my own expenses. I have never before received such treatment during my career as a superintendent of education."

Yesterday the superintendent visited the McKinley building, the Central High School, and the Western High School, and expressed himself as highly pleased with his inspection. He praised the Western High. Of the Central he said: "I think Central High School would make an excellent grammar school. Mind you, I am not criticizing the work accomplished there; I am speaking of the building itself. I don't think that it, and particularly the basement, is a proper building for the accommodation of eleven hundred boys and girls."

"I was not favorably impressed with the site of the building," he continued. "A high school should be of impressive architectural appearance, and should occupy a commanding location; and from what I can gather, I believe the citizens of the District are of like mind."

Dr. Chancellor also spoke highly of the teachers whom he met, and whose work he witnessed in the high schools. Since the opening of the winter term he has visited about seventy-five of the schools of the District, and will continue his personal inspection when he returns from his Southern trip.

Commissioner Gets Ruling. Commissioner West, explaining the allowance of Dr. Chancellor's expenses, says that after Auditor Garrison had directed his attention to an apparently unfavorable decision, he took the matter up with Comptroller Tracewell, who said the expense accounts would not be rejected, but suggested that the order be changed so as to read that Dr. Chancellor a maximum of $5 per diem, which was done.

DEFENDS PUBLIC SCHOOL. District Official Declares They Serve as Models for Other Cities.

The plan advocated by Superintendent Chancellor for consolidating the schools of the city does not meet with the unanimous indorsement of the District officials. One who for a number of years has followed closely the construction of school buildings said:

"The question of the consolidation of the school system in Washington presents many sides, and is in my opinion one that requires serious consideration before it is adopted. The cost is one thing to be considered, and in my judgment, to adopt the proposed plan is to face a serious economic Washington schools are perhaps not the finest in the country, but considering the cost of their erection they are as good, if not better, than those of any city of the United States. The school of Boston, for instance, are erected at a cost of 22 cents a cubic foot, while those of Washington cost but half that sum."

"The system of school buildings in Washington has been regarded as a model throughout the country, and many school boards have patterned after it. The plumbing in our schools is of the highest standard, and much of the plumbing apparatus involved by District officials has been adopted by the school boards of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and many other large cities."

"The situation that exists here are not similar to those of a more Northern climate. Dr. Chancellor has recommended that light and air be admitted only from one side of a room. As the schools do not close until the latter part of June, the recommendation, if adopted, would result in discomfort to the children and teachers, and make ventilation impossible."

Recalls the Brownsville Affair. Editor Washington Herald: The incident of the colored soldiers going off on a rampage down in Brownsville, Tex., and the drastic action of President Roosevelt in dismissing, "without honor," three companies of said soldiers, recalls a somewhat similar "incident" that occurred out in the wilds of Nevada in the summer of 1890. The United States government was transporting troops from the Union and Central Pacific railroads on their way to the Philippines. A regiment of colored soldiers were sidetracked at a little village called Lovelock, waiting for a train to pass. A crowd of the privates went over to a saloon in the town, some trouble arose, and the proprietor of the saloon was murdered in cold blood. The county officers held the train up for some fifteen or twenty hours trying to find the culprit, but "mum" was the word among the whole trainload, and the guilty one escaped.

GOOD WORD FOR ROUMANIA.

Its People Are Happy and the Country Prosperous.

Editor Washington Herald: A news item in The Herald for Sunday had a headline that might give a wrong impression. The item referred to was in regard to an acquittal of a murderer in Roumania, and the headline implied that he was acquitted because the man killed had invented a labor-saving device, with the inference that ingenuity and progress are at a discount in Roumania.

I know nothing of the merits of the case in question, but I am fairly well acquainted with this progressive country and its energetic people, and can say that in no country in Europe is there a greater appreciation of genius, skill, and enterprise than in this part of the Balkan peninsula. American machinery is widely used, and our manufacturers are glad to send their machinery to Roumania, because they know that it will be skillfully handled and bring credit to the maker. It is well known to all exporters that the Roumanian is by nature a mechanic, and looks with favor upon every ingenious device that he finds. Moreover, he is not so plentiful that any fear is felt that work can lose its value by the introduction of machinery. The country is prosperous, the people are happy, and the only cloud upon their horizon is the poor health of their king. J. H. GORE. November 19, 1906.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

A Reply to Dr. Winbiger by Mr. Edward E. Norwood.

Editor Washington Herald: Please allow me space in your good paper to answer the main points noted in your review of Dr. Winbiger's attack on Christian Science and its leader. I regret that he begins by using the threadbare statement, refuted time and time again, "That it is unchristian and unscientific." His statement that Christian Science is not Christian simply means that it does not agree with his peculiar views of Christianity. There may be members of his own church who differ with him also. I should like to see his definition of what constitutes Christianity, and how this may throw some light on the subject. Christian Science is compassionate, helpful, and regenerative, and moreover, it follows Christ's commands practically; hence, we believe it to be Christian. As to Dr. W.'s assertion that it is unscientific, its correctness depends entirely upon his ability to demonstrate it. One might well ask how many sick folk has he healed as a demonstration of his understanding of Christianity? Countless thousands testify to the demonstrated truth of the principles and rules of Christian Science, in being raised from dying beds, so-called incurable organic diseases, of false appetites destroyed, and many other ways. So we believe it to be a demonstrable science by those who, having studied it, are thus capable of judging. His allegation that Christian Science is pantheism, is incredible to an intelligent reader; for the Book is an unrefusable refutation of pantheism, while the alleged statement that it is Orientalism or Theosophy is equally erroneous, since these teachings are absolutely antipodal to Christian Science. Let me very briefly consider the "mental things" that he sees in Science and Health:

1. "There is no matter." It is well to note that the Scriptures have quite little respect for matter. Mrs. Eddy, Jesus himself said: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing." We might ask, "How much is nothing," and what is the origin of that which is altogether unprofitable? Christian Science agrees with Paul, "Things which are seen (material phenomena), are temporal"—very real to the senses, but being no real part of spirit's spiritual creation.

2. "There is no individual mind." Christian Science again agrees with Paul "to have that mind which was also in Christ Jesus"—the one infinite, eternal mind. God, whom every child of God reflects, and who is the mind of each one just as there is but one sun, though all enjoy its light and heat.

3. "There is no evil." Does Dr. Winbiger put himself on record as believing in the reality and power of that which Jesus termed "a liar and the father of it"? We speak of darkness as the absence of light. Is darkness a reality? Darkness is not something, but the want of something. Evil is not understood as the absence of God; error, the want of truth; sickness the lack of health. The denial of matter in Christian Science does not mean the denial of creation, but the denial that it is what it seems to be to the uneducated human mind, so that that quality of understanding that does not receive it from a spiritual viewpoint.

4. "There is no personal God." Mrs. Eddy testifies that God is the infinite Person, personal in its highest sense, but not in any humanized lower sense, and upon reflection Dr. Winbiger would perhaps agree with her.

5. "The Bible does not mean what it says." Such an assumption is entirely unwarranted, for Science and Health teaches no such thing. We are exhorted to seek and find the spiritual meaning, thus agreeing with our Master's teaching, "The spirit giveth life," and those who have carefully studied the Scriptures in the light of Christian Science, have joyfully found them to be, indeed, a new book, fresh from God's word, in their meaning unfolded and made practical.

The Christian Scientist recognizes the material phenomena called disease, designates it by the same name which others apply to it, grapple with it and overcome it. Intellectually, it is like other preachers of the gospel, accepts a small fee for his services, although he does not exact it.

Even if our critic's statement were true that Mrs. Eddy, in her later years, had fortune through Christian Science, she would deserve it, for her life-long toil and self-sacrifice for humanity; and the statement that her writings are plagiarized from Dr. Quimby is utterly unfounded. The United States court in Boston, and are a matter of record there.

Were the statement to be made that the teachings of the Baptist denomination tend to disorganize morals and a moral life, Dr. Winbiger would surely be incensed; yet such a statement would be just as true when applied to his church as to Christian Science, and he knows it. It is absolutely erroneous, unwarranted, and unjust.

If the closing sentence of the review be true, namely, "That Dr. Winbiger's book is strongly written, and a powerful presentation from his point of view," I can but add that the weak attacks made for this book falls of its own weight. Would he not have done God better service by preaching the gospel to his flock, following his Master's dual function, "Preach the gospel and heal the sick." EDWARD E. NORWOOD. Washington, November 18.

Chancellor is Attacked. The policies of Superintendent of Schools Chancellor were bitterly attacked last night at a public mass meeting held in the Second Baptist Church, and for the purpose of discussing school affairs.

In speaking of Supt. Chancellor's expressed wish that the present agitation cease and the matter be allowed to drop, Rev. S. L. Corrothers declared that it was the desire of the Citizens' Committee that the affair be closed as soon as possible, but that such a result could only be attained by Mr. Chancellor's resignation from office.

Angry South Washington Citizens Demand Attention to Complaints.

Association Will Try Again and Submit Grievance Anew Encroachments of Pennsylvania.

Members of the South Washington Citizens' Association, at their meeting last night, said they were not receiving just treatment at the hands of the District officials to whom they have submitted complaints about the condition of the streets of that section caused by the changing of the grade of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Dr. Millard F. Thompson submitted the report of his last conference with the officials of the Engineer-Commissioner's office, which he said was far from satisfactory. Their attention was called, he said, to the retaining wall of the railroad on Sixth street, between Virginia avenue and C street, which, it is alleged, is encroaching upon the building lines of the adjacent property.

"I was told," said Dr. Thompson, "by an official that I was wasting not only his time but my own in waiting to confer with him upon the subject."

President W. H. Church appointed the following committee to call upon Engineer Commissioner Biddle and confer with him regarding the conditions of Southwest Washington: Dr. M. F. Thompson, R. H. Johnson, J. T. Wright, Charles Schaefer, Joseph Williams, John Owen, T. C. Stevenson, and W. H. Church.

Members of the association asserted that by the erection of the wall which they call the "Chinese Wall," they were practically buried.

The question of damages resulting to property from changes in grade was discussed, and it was suggested that if the claims were not satisfactorily adjusted that the members of the association combine their cases and appeal them to the court for settlement.

AETNA BANKERS ARE INDICTED Grand Jury Charges Conspiracy in Separate Counts. John T. Hoag Accused of False Pretenses—Illegal Incorporation of Companies Chief Allegation. Abner B. Clements, former cashier of the Aetna Banking and Trust Company, of Butte, Mont., John T. Hoag, assistant cashier of the same institution, and in charge of its Washington branch, and Evelyn W. McCormick, of this city, were yesterday indicted by the grand jury for conspiracy. McCormick entered a plea of not guilty, with the privilege to withdraw the plea and enter a demurrer in thirty days. A separate indictment was also returned against Mr. Hoag, for false pretenses. The conspiracy indictment is in two counts, one, charging conspiracy to defraud, the other by unlawfully procuring in the District of Columbia charters for corporations, and the other for conspiracy to commit the crime of obtaining charters from the United States by false pretenses. Under the law in force in the District of Columbia March 15, 1905, it is charged corporations could not be organized under the District laws until 10 per cent of the capital stock of the proposed corporation had been paid in cash into the hands of the first board of trustees of the corporation. The scheme charged in the indictment is that, when ever McCormick, who, it is alleged, was engaged in the business of organizing corporations, desired to file with the recorder a deed a certificate of organization of any company, and it became necessary for him to prove to the recorder that 10 per cent of the capital stock had been actually paid, Hoag, the assistant cashier of the Aetna Banking and Trust Company, would give McCormick an alleged false certificate that there was then on deposit with the bank a sum equal to 10 per cent of the capital stock of the proposed company, and that McCormick would exhibit the certificate of deposit to the recorder of deeds as evidence that the provision of the law had been complied with, when, it is alleged, as a matter of fact, no money had been deposited by McCormick or his associates. Among the overt acts set forth are letters from Hoag and McCormick to Clements, and from the latter to Hoag, which embody the alleged scheme said to have been formed by the defendants.
